The Detroit Developers Webinar Series is a follow-up to the successful Summit hosted by Councilwoman Latisha Johnson in July. Building on the momentum of that event, which brought together over 100 real estate developers to explore local development opportunities, this series will delve deeper into key topics discussed at the Summit.

With insights from leading experts, the webinars aim to foster collaboration and provide valuable resources for both seasoned and emerging developers looking to enhance their projects in our community. Join us to explore valuable resources to support development in our community. We look forward to your participation!
